D. A. R. MEETING.

The April meeting of the McKean Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, was held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Freeman on Monday afternoon with twelve members and five visitors present. Response to roll call brought forth a number of amusing stories at the business session, it was decided to assum the payment of one-half a scholarship in the Nancy Hanks department of Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tennessee for the next four years. This scholarship is devoted to the education of poor students from the mountain districts who come from as poor homes as that of Abraham Lincoln and are as eager for education as was Lincoln himself. Its stands as a living memorial to Lincoln and his mother. Mrs. John Forest read a most interesting article, "The Shot Heard Round the World," and Mrs. E. E. Bouton sang several delightful solos. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Bouton. Mrs Freeman served delicious refreshments. She was assisted by the Misses Vera and Etolle Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shattuck are moving into their new home on West Main street.

TEMPLE CLUB ENTERTAINS.

The interior of the new Temple club building presented a very attractive appearance Tuesday evening, when about two hundred people, Masons, their wives and friends thronged its hospitable doors. The large well appointed rooms were bright with lights, and gay with many hued flowers and ferns. The reception committee was kept busy nearly an hour shaking hands with long lines of people that kept filing in.

The new radio outfit installed by Claire White and Fred Biever, furnished a fine concert, and card playing and dancing kept every one amused until late in the evening. Those of the guests who were not familiar with the new building were escorted through and shown its beautiful lodge room, billiard room, and various attractive features.

The affair was voted a great success by all present, and great credit is due those who so well planned and executed it.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN'S VOTERS GIVES DINNER.

Smethport League of Women Voters held a delightful dinner Wednesday evening, April fourth at St. Luke's Parish house. There were twenty five present. Following the dinner Prof Stanley Bright gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Some Possibilities in the development of our schools." He spoke first of state legislation in regard to schools all over the state, how if the Edmunds bill with its modifications is passed, more state aid may be given us, and our own school have more advantages, the study of music and drawing be renewed, and our school bettered in numerous ways.

Rev. W. E. Vanllyke then spoke in a witty and interesting manner on "What is Womans Work?" He stated that woman's work is in the home, and then went on to show that today, home extends beyond four walls of ones house, out into the world, and that women's interests lie in all that concerns her family and her home.

The next meeting of the league will be held Wednesday evening, April 18th at St. Luke's Parish house. Rev. Arthur Gregson will give a book review on "Science of Power." All members are urged to be present and bring their frinds, as these meetings are open to the public, and a large attendance is desired.

The special road tax millage has been reduced from 5 mills to 2½ mills.

NEAR EAST RELIEF DRIVE.

The local drive for the Near East will take place the latter part of the month. The general committee is Mrs R. Kessler Jr., Mrs. John Forrest, Mrs. J. Clayton Backus, Miss Carrie A. Day and Rev. Van Dyke. The working plan will entirely prevent any duplication in soliciting as the work will be personal and each solicitor will have a definite number to see. No organization will be asked to contribute as an organization during the drive. Last year Smethport gave over thirteen hundred dollars to the Near East Relief and the need is fully as great this year. Please consider the matter carefully and plan to make a generous contribution when the solicitor calls.

GIVE US A STATE FAIR.

Pennsylvania needs a State Fair. As the State Fair Commission states in their report to the legislature: "A typical State Fair and exposition is an educational institution which portrays the industrial, agricultural and commercial advancement from year to year of the State which it has an opportunity to represent."

This Commonwealth is the only state in the Union of size or wealth not having a State Fair worthy of the name.

The Commission has asked the legislature to appropriate Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000) for the purchase of a site in Cumberland County, laying out and grading of grounds, buildings, of planting of trees and such other preliminary work as may be necessary to establish a State Fair worthy of our great state.

It has been estimated that after the purchase and grading of grounds it will take from $1,670,000 to $2,660,000 to erect suitable buildings and fix roads, etc. for a great Fair.

State Fairs support themselves after once started. The great Toronto Fair last year entertained one million an a quarter visitors at a net profit of over $709,000.

Following her graduation, she taught school for some time, later she went in training for a nurse at St. Luke's hospital, New York City, and was within a few weeks of her graduation, when it was found there was a diseased spot on one lung. She was soon taken to Trudeau Sanitarium, and everything modern skill could devise was done to ward off the dread disease, but in vain, her illness lasted about a year and on Wednesday her brave young life passed on to that higher and better kingdom, where there is no more pain or suffering. Her two sisters Anne McGowan of New Haven, Connecticut, and Mrs. Ralph Herzog of this place, were at her bedside when she died.

The body will be brought here today (Thursday) funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Besides the two sisters above mentioned she leaves four brothers, George of Blairsville, Pa., James R. of Cheshire Conn., Charles of Smethport, and Leonard of New York city.

CENTER COUNTY DEER KILLING CASE SUSPENDED

Considerable interest has been aroused throughout the State because of the publicity given several leading newspapers in the cases of Joseph Cole and John McCartney of Snow Shoe, in Center County for the illegal killing of a deer. Traveling Game Protector, L. K. Hogarth brought the prosecution for the State Game Commission. The cases were tried before Justice Woodring of Bellefonte and the parties convicted. There was some criticism at the time because these men claimed to have found a wounded deer which they killed to put it out of its misery. The case was appealed. Upon the final settlement, the defendants paid the costs and sentence was suspended.

TOURISTS AGAIN PLAN TO FOLLOW RADIATORS TOWARD INDIANAPOLIS.

Veto of Anti-Race Bill Preserves May 30 as Home Coming Week.

By voting the bill which sought to do with the annual 500 mile Memorial day race on the Indianapolis Speedway, Governor McCray, of Indiana, won the admiration of distributors and dealers for Indianapolis-made cars throughout the country who looked upon the yearly classic as a home coming event, as well as of owners who, while in Indianapolis for the race, take the opportunity of visiting the factories where their cars are made.

Plans for the welcoming and accommodation of such visitors which were suspended when it looked as though the bill was going through were at once restored by Indianapolis factories and made more comprehensive than ever, following the veto and subsequent failure of the senate to override the Governor's action.

Thru its distributor and dealer organization, the Nordyke and Marmon Company, the oldest Indianapolis motor car manufacturers, is making special effort to interest Marmon owners in opening the 1923 touring season with a route which will include Indianapolis during the week of May 30.

The interest which brings hundreds of people to the Marmon factory every year, according to the Smethport Garage Co. local distributor for the Marmon, is the fact that this is one of the very factories in the country where it is possible to see a high grade car manufactured in its entirety. The Marmon factory, he points out, not only manufactures its own engine, transmission, rear axel, frame and all other chassis units but has an enormous plant where the visitors can see metal, wood, leather and fabrics transformed to luxurious motor car bodies, both open and closed.

Galeton has installed an electric plant at the cost of $100,000.00. The electric lights were turned on for the first time, in that thriving town, last week.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA EXTENSION SERVICE IN MEDICINE

Co-operates With State Medical Society to Help Local Physicians and Surgeons.

Provost Josiah H. Penniman

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3.—At the request of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania the University of Pennsylvania, through its Graduate School of Medicine, has put into operation an extensive teaching plan by which physicians and surgeons of the entire State are receiving instruction in the latest developments of medicine and surgery. When the State Medical Society made this request, it was pointed out that Pennsylvania, being the pioneer in the establishment of Undergraduate and also Graduate Schools of Medicine, was best fitted to initiate this new movement in medicine.

Dr. George H. Meeker, Dean of the Graduate School of Medicine, is in charge of it. Officials of the State Medical Society, as well as leading physicians and surgeons throughout the State, are co-operating to introduce it into the various counties. As rapidly as the County Medical Associations are learning of this unusual form of service, they are co-operating to the fullest extent.

The plan now being pursued with such success is to arrange a schedule of clinics in the leading hospitals. Distinguished members of the medical faculty visit the hospitals, consult the histories of the most interesting surgical and medical cases, and then with all the local physicians and surgeons as students give clinical demonstrations in which they show the latest and approved methods of treatment. This plan, which the University of Pennsylvania has already demonstrated in many of the State's leading hospitals frequently with more than one hundred physicians in attendance, is to be widely extended.

In commenting upon the reason for this course, Provost Josiah H. Penniman said that since the University of Pennsylvania had both the first Undergraduate Medical School in this country (founded in 1765) and the first Graduate School of Medicine in America, it ought to be the pioneer. So successful has its work become that physicians and surgeons have been coming to the University from all parts of the United States and foreign countries for post-graduate courses. It was recently visited by delegations from England and France to obtain new ideas for Post-Graduate Medical study in Europe.

In addition to this service, which the University is rendering gratuitously and as a public duty, Pennsylvania is maintaining much other extension work. This includes various courses of the Wharton School in the leading cities of the State. The University has also just held an international conference on Orthodontia, the regulation of the teeth, at which delegates came from all the leading dental schools of the United States, and from Canada, Ireland and England to acquaint themselves with the latest methods in the teaching of this subject. There has also just been concluded a Veterinary Conference for the Eastern States, a two weeks' course in Highway Engineering in co-operation with the State Highway Department of Pennsylvania and neighboring States.

Provost Penniman has also announced that the annual Schoolmen's Week Convention, in the interest of public school education, will be held at the University April 12, 13, 14. It is expected that fully 2500 delegates will be present.

The Summer School, which opens on July 2, announces a new course and demonstration schools in Rural Education, to be under the direction of Thomas S. Bock, who is director of Rural Education for the State of Pennsylvania.

A LEGHORN RECORD.

While Mount Jewett has never had occassion before of boasting of chicken records, we are pleased to give an account of an egg record produced by a flock of 100 White Leghorn Pullets, owned by John Scarron of Lindholm.

In December the 100 pullets laid 1331 eggs, in January 1758 and February up to the 17th, 995. Owing to a fire and smothering of 60 pullets he was unable to continue in the bath room engaged in taking his record. The total eggs for 130 days and one half months was 4084.—Mt. Jewett Echo.

WILD GEESE ON TRIP ANNOY OLEAN FOLKS.

Olean March 27.—"Air raids" are keeping Olean residents awake o'night according to reports. The wild geese, flying from the sunny south have been spending the night circling the city lately. Their honking noise has driven away restful slumber according to many.

The lights of Olean are held responsible. Rousing the city the birds start flying around over the lights and become confused and circle the city until daylight, it was explained by old timers. The wild geese fail to get back their sense of direction until the day breaks, it was told, and then they continued northward.

NEW FIRE TRUCK ORDERED.

The contract for the purchase of a new fire truck, which was authorized by the borough council at their last meeting, has been closed with the American-LaFrance Fire Engine Co. and the order was placed Tuesday.

The new piece of apparatus is the type 75, with four hundred gallon capacity pump.

TWO YOUNGSTERS HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Nathan aged 10 years and David, aged 11, sons of Mr. and Mrs. M. Zass of Fraley street, had narrow escapes last night from being asphyxiated by gas. The youngsters were in the bath room engaged in taking a bath when one of them finding the room chilly, turned on the gas in the heater thinking that it was lighted. The bath room rapidly filled with gas and David became unconscious. Nathan was unable to reach the door, but his cries and struggles attracted members of the family who came to the rescue in time to save both lads from death. While David was revived, Nathan became unconscious and today is in the worse physical condition of the pair. However both boys are expected to regain normal health within a few days.—Kane Republican.

75th ANNIVERSARY SOON TO BE OBSERVED BY NORDYKE & MARMON.

Makers of Marmon Car Started in 1851 as Manufacturers Of Flour Mills.

While the manufacture of motor is popularly as an adolescent industry, there are few companies engaged in motor car manufacturing which are well past the adolescent stage. The Nordyke and Marmon Company of Indianapolis, for example, is now looking forward to the celebration of its seventy-fifth anniversity.

Although the Nordyke and Marmon Company is best known to the public by the Marmon car, it is best known in the milling trade as America's leading builder of flour and cereal mills. Its reputation in this field began in 1851 when Ellis Nordyke and his son formed a partnership for the manufacture and erection of mills. The mechanical ability of the Nordykes was supplemented by that of Daniel W. Marmon, who later became president.

Following the death of Daniel Marmon in 1909, his sons, Walter and Howard Marmon, succeeded to the management of the business which at that time included the manufacture of motor cars as well as milling machinery. Walter Marmon is president of the Nordyke and Marmon Company since his father's death, remains in the active management of the company to day, while Howard Marmon, vice president, is chiefly responsible for the engineering achievements of the concern.

Although there are other companies now manufacturing motor cars whose experience in this field are untolated by successes in other lines of manufacture it is believed that there are few if any which remained uninterruptedly under the direction of the same family of executives. This fact is frequently cited as reason for the undeviating adherence to the same manufacturing standards known to the Nordyke and Marmon Company, inasmuch as this policy has been a matter of pride as well as good business.

Several other executives and employes of the company have service records which parallel those of the Marmons themselves. The oldest executive in point of service is Herbert H. Rice, secretary, whose affiliation with the company began in 1886.

PROHIBITION ADVANCING

The real and great accomplishments of prohibition do not contain the elements out of which striking newspaper stories are made. The evils of drink, on the other hand, do. The man that goes soberly about his business is not "copy"; the man that runs amuck is.

If conditions were otherwise, the question of whether prohibition is a success or a failure never would be raised.

The unthinking are likely to form their opinion that prohibition is not accomplished what is expected of it from the tales of bootlegging and other violations of the enforcement act—from the over-stressed reports of police court affairs, from the recorded crimes of violence and from the deaths that follow the drinking of illicit liquor. These things are facts and they must be told and must be read. But there is a credit side.

Against the stories of disorder and death place the report of the Boston Family Welfare society, an organization of social service, which has recently completed a country-wide survey to discover how prohibition is working. This society reports a decrease of 74 per cent since 1917 in the number of drink-created relief cases handled by social organizations. For example, the decrease in Chicago is 69.9 per cent; in Saint Louis, 81.5; Boston, 72.6; Cleveland, 67.2; New York city, 68.8; Providence, 100 percent. The smallest decrease is recorded by Haverhill, Mass., 39 percent.

This is the story eloquent of the accomplishments of prohibition. You must read between the lines to get the full force of the tale. It means better living conditions for a multitude of people. It means families better housed, better fed, better clothed. It means life worth living for thousands of women and children that were in the depths of misery.

By and large, it is marvelously good story. Yet it is not the kind that screams at us in bold blackface type. Accomplishments in social betterments, in contentment, do not find their way easily into news columns. They are the short and simple annuals of the poor.—Buffalo Evening News.

A. B. HENRY A CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY SHERIFF.

The announcement of A. B. Henry, of Eldred, candidate for the republican nomination for Sheriff of McKean County, appears in this issue of the Miner. Mr. Henry is widely known throughout the county, having been for twenty years foreman, and later superintendent of the United Natural Gas Company. During this time he was a resident of Bradford, moving to Eldred some eleven years ago where he has varied his time between farming, dairing, being interested in high grade cattle, and various oil interests. He has been a member of the Eldred School Board for a little over a year, and during that time he has devoted much of his time to the improvment of the public schools in his home town, and the building and faculty of that institution ranks today as among the best in the county, and largely to the energy and personal attention to the public interest therein, by Mr. Henry. If successful in being elected to the office of Sheriff of McKean County, he will give his personal attention to the duties of the office and those who are personally acquainted with him and there are many through the whole district, know that he will spare no time or attention to see that the important duties of the office to which he aspires are carried out to the fullest extent, without impartiality.

TIOGA COUNTY JUDGE DIES AT WELLSBORO.

S. F. Channell, president judge of the Tioga county courts, constituting the fourth judicial district, died after a lingering illness Thursday morning, in his 75th year.

He was born in Canton, Bradford county, and was educated in the public schools. For two years he attended Lafayette College. He located at Wellsboro in 1877 and commenced law studies in the office of Henry Sherwood and Son. He was admitted to the Tioga county bar in 1880 and opened a law office here in 1844.

He formed a partnership with Henry M. Foote, which terminated when the latter moved to Washington, in 1889. Later he became a member of the law firm of Whitmore Marsh and Channell, until his election to the bench November, 1915, for a term of ten years. Judge Channell married Lizzie Fairman of Wellsboro in September, 1888. They one son who died. Mrs. Channell died in 1920 and in 1921 Judge Channell married Mrs. M. Young of Wellsboro, who survives him.

Judge Channell served as council to the county commissioners three years; two as president of the local school board; four as secretary of the same and as burgess of Wellsboro, during the war he was chairman of the Red Cross for the county. In every activity for the betterment and uplift of the community he was foremost, giving of his time and money freely.

Judge Channell was active in masonry. He was one of two 33rd degree Masons of Tioga county and had filled all the chairs of the various departments. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and one of Tioga county's foremost citizens.—Potter Enterprise.

Cured by Had a Bark.

The porter on the Pittsburgh-Detroit sleeper may have heard a gentle yapping in berth No. 2 during the night but there was a $5 bill in the pocket of his white coat and so the Pullman rule book might have been written in Sanskrit for all he cared. In the morning, when the train reached Detroit, the porter avoided the inevitable platform parting between the fair traveler in the pink coat who held a little package wrapped in a pink comforter, to her shoulder, and the old lady in the seal jacket who had slept in berth four. "I heard your baby last night," the old lady said. "It's hard for such little babies, traveling, isn't it?" "Yes," answered the young woman as she stooped down, shifted the pink comforter, and released a squint-eyed, rat-tailed poodle. "Wanda, dear, insisted on barking every time the train stopped."—Detroit News.

EXTENSIVE BUILDING PROGRAM FOR 1923.

Local Winchester Dealer says that all construction records will be broken.

"When the curtain is drawn on the year 1923, I have every reason to believe that we will discover that every record made for construction in the United States has been broken."

This statement was made yesterday by Chas. W. Masser, the local Winchester dealer, who makes it a part of his business to keep well posted on building conditions not only in this section but throughout the country.

Continuing his opening statement Mr. Masser said: "Nothing denotes the return of industrial prosperity which also means the prosperity of the nation—any more than the continuation and enlargement of the building program begun one year ago. The housing shortage caused by the curtailment of building operations during the war still exists and despite the fact that building operations in 1922 exceeded those of any other year by more than $1,000,000,000 experienced observers are of the opinion that the figures this year will be considerably above those of last year.

"There is one little hitch in this program, however. The building construction industry has reached a point where it can go no faster than men can be supplied to assemble materials that go to make up a building. In New York and other important centers the shortage of laborers and skilled mechanics is of considerable importance. The condition may work itself out and everyone hopes that it will.

"We notice new buildings going up all around us but very few people give a thought to the army in many of this construction work, of these figures will prove startling to many. Conservative figures of 1922 place the construction activities of $3,541,656,000, of which more than one billion dollars was for homes. In 1919 national building construction figures averaged $49,613,000 each week of the year. In 1920 the average was $48,716,000. The weekly average for the first quarter in 1921 was $29,000,000; the second quarter, $33,000,000; the third, $52,000,000 and the fourth $48,000,000. Then came the boom. The weekly average for th first quarter in 1922 was $50,000,000; the second quarter, $82,000,000; the third quarter $75,000,000 and the fourth quarter around $69,000,000. The final quarter is usually the poorest for building trades. Eighty thousand (80,000) buildings were constructed in 1920, 110,000 buildings in 1921 and 160,000 in 1922.

"In Los Angeles, Calif., a house was finished every 20 minutes. The buildings completed in that city in 1922, if placed on 50 foot lots would make a street 190 miles long built solid on both sides. One hundred forty-five thousand (145,000) persons are employed in this work in Los Angeles. This will give one an idea of the great number of prsons who are engaged in actual construction work. These men require a lot of Winchester hammers, chisels and such other tools. You can figure it out as well as I can, the vast number of locks, bolts and other lines of builder's hardware that are needed in the finishing product.

"It looks like a big year."

It seems impossible to exhaust the possibilities of making mistakes.

When Bitten by a Mad Dog.

Hydrophobia in man and rabies in dogs can be prevented by a course of injections of dried spinal cord from rabbits which have died of experimental rabies (fixed virus). The treatment is available in every community in the United States and every physician knows how to order the treatment by telegraph from the state board of health. One out of six persons bitten by a mad dog dies in horrible agony if not treated. If bitten by a dog, follow that dog at all hazards, until you can get assistance to catch it, do not kill it, but place it in a secure place for observation. If symptoms of rabies appear, apply only for anti-rabic treatment through your family physician. If the dog is rabid it will die, send the head packed in ice to the board of health laboratory for diagnosis, says Harold L. Amoss, M. D., in the Health Builder.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every housekeeper, in the secret places in her soul, longs to have some one praise her pie. She can have pie that can be praised if she follows carefully the recipe for mixing and handling the dough that is used by food specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture.

Plain Pastry for Double-Crust Pie.

2½ cupfuls flour	1-3 cupful fat (a little more than 6 level tablespoonfuls)
2-3 to 1 cupful ice water	½ teaspoonful salt

Place the flour, salt and lard into a bowl and cut with a biscuit cutter until it looks mealy. Take out one-fourth cupful of the finely divided flour-and-fat mixture to be used later on the upper and under crusts. Add the water gradually to the remaining flour-and-fat mixture, cutting with the biscuit cutter until the water is evenly mixed in.

Divide the dough into two approximately equal parts, one for the upper and the other for the under crust. Shape each into a flattened ball and roll until about five inches in diameter.

Take one of these flat cakes of dough, place about one-eighth cupful of the finely divided flour-and-fat mixture which was reserved onto the half of the dough nearest the worker, and fold the other half over this, pressing the edges together. Roll slightly and fold the right side over two-thirds of the way toward the opposite edge; then fold the left side similarly toward the right side thus making an oblong piece of three thicknesses. Fold this oblong piece of dough through the center to form a square.

Shape the dough with the hands so as to round the corners, thus making a round cake. Roll lightly until the dough is large enough to cover the pan. Cover the pan with the dough, taking care to see that no air is inclosed between the pan and dough. Put the pie filling in place.

Roll the upper crust in the same manner as that described for the lower. Cut perforations in the upper crust to allow for the escape of steam. Moisten the rim of the under crust with water, place the top crust in position and press the two edges together with the thumb. Trim the edges with a knife and press the edges together using the tines of a fork.

Bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate hot oven, i. e., at about 450 degrees F.

Special Points to Be Observed.

No more water should be added than the recipe calls for. The proportions given have been tested innumerable times, and the addition of extra water will only result in a cracker-like pastry. Extra flour will not offset extra water because the proportions of the entire recipe will then be altered. If handled and measured correctly, this recipe is always satisfactory.

The old idea that only ice water should be used for all kinds of pastry is more or less of a superstition. On the contrary, if the fat is very cold, as it will be if it is kept in a cold room or out-of-doors in freezing weather, hot water is better than cold for mixing the dough. In very warm weather, however, it is well to use cold water if the fat seems very soft.

In putting the pie crust on the pan it should be cut enough larger than the pan to allow for shrinkage. It should be well pressed into the pan and around the bottom with the fingers so that no air can be enclosed beneath it. A single pie crust or shell, baked as undercrust for a lemon or chocolate or custard pie, should be pricked with a fork in many places to allow any air that is below the crust to escape; otherwise it will puff up in the middle. The upper edge of this undercrust should be rolled under the edge of the pan. This gives a good appearance to the finished pie.

In making custard pies, or those containing juicy fruits like cherries or blueberries, a soggy undercrust can be avoided if, before the filling is put in, the crust is baked for about ten minutes or until the color starts to change. It must not be baked until brown before filling, for fear that the pie would be dark and unpalatable. The fruit or custard should be heated and added to the partially baked crust while the latter is still in the oven; the baking is then finished as usual.

When making a number of pies it is worth while to glaze them by brushing the upper crust with a mixture of three tablespoonfuls of milk to one well-beaten egg. For a single pie it would hardly pay to use the egg unless what remained of the mixture could be utilized for pudding, French toast, or some other cooking. Brush the glaze on with a fork wrapped in a bit of clean muslin.

Custard Pie.

1¼ cupfuls milk	½ teaspoonful vanilla
3 eggs	Nutmeg
¼ cupful sugar
½ teaspoonful salt

Civil War Conscription.

During the Civil war both sides resorted to conscription. May 3, 1863, the Federals passed a law calling every able-bodied citizen of military age into service. However, many persons were able to buy themselves off on payment of $300, or by obtaining a substitute. In July of the same year the Union called all men between eighteen and forty-five into active service, without provision for exemption. In February, 1864, the law was extended to include all between seventeen and fifty. Unpopularity of conscription caused draft riots in New York and other places.

The first Confederate conscription law of April, 1862, annulled all contracts for volunteers for short terms, holding them for two years, and made every white male between eighteen and twenty-five liable to service at a moment's notice. In September, 1862, the law was extended to all men between eighteen and forty-five.

DAIRY HINTS

CONTESTS IMPROVE QUALITY

Demonstrations in South Carolina Have Done Much to Promote Dairy Industry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

County and state butter contests, a feature of South Carolina extension work for women last year, accomplished much in the way of improving the dairy industry there. South Carolina is not a dairy state. It uses annually about $14,000,000 worth of dairy products shipped in from other states. Some of this importation is due to the fact that while there is a large amount of farm butter produced within the state no steady demand for it has been developed. For the purpose of creating an interest in this farm-made butter, and to teach the women to make a better product, contests which were open to home-demonstration club members were started during 1921 in 11 counties.

Butter demonstrations were given in all the women's clubs, and all interested persons were invited to a demonstration by the state specialist at the county seat. Three hundred and sixty women and girls enrolled for the contests, and of these 120 sent butter for every judging. Without exception there was a great improvement in the packages brought to market and the quality of the butter sold, as the women learned to what extent the butter is affected by the temperature used for ripening and churning, the care and cleanliness in handling and the feeds for the cow.

"Contest butter" sold very readily at the various club markets, and those who did not enter the contest were obliged to make improvement in the quality of what they offered for sale or lose the market for their butter. Extension workers report to the United States department of Agriculture that the butter produced in all parts of the state has been perceptibly improved as a result of these contests.

TRAP KEEPS COW CONTENTED

Kansas Farmer Designs Odd Contraption to Keep Flies From Milk Producers.

Along with keeping his hired help contented the farmer must also keep his cows "contented," if they are to give their maximum production of milk. A Kansas farmer, who believes that bovine contentment depends largely upon keeping the animals free of flies, has invented an odd fly-trap for that particular purpose. The cow enters and walks through the cage, and the flies are brushed off by brushes that protrude from each side. The flies, or most of them, in their attempt to escape, are caught in a specially designed trap on the top of the inclosure.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

DESTROYING LARVAE OF FLY

Caution Must Be Used in Applying Chemicals to Manure Piles to Conserve Value.

There are many ways of combating the fly nuisance. On farms, the manure piles are probably the chief sources of fly infection. The use of chemicals in destroying the larvae of the fly in manure piles is one of the important ways of keeping this insect under subjection. However, one must be cautious inasmuch as a too liberal use of some of the chemicals will destroy the fertilizing value of the manure.

FACTORS IN DAIRY FARMING

Of Great Importance That Barns and Utensils Be Clean to Add to Creamery Check.

Good clean barns, clean milking practices and clean dairy utensils are three essential factors in dairy farming, whether for the man who is making it his sole business, or the farmer who uses five to ten cows to add the creamery check to his income for the month, along with other farming work.

Silo Increases Profits.

Business farmers and experiment stations have found that a silo not only increases the yearly profits of the farm, but eliminates many uncertainties of live stock raising.

Tie the calves up so they can be fed separately.

Cows Standing Highest.

ACTIVE DRIVE NOW ON FOR B-P HIGHWAY

Buffalo-Pittsburgh Highway Association Confident That Its Claims Will Be Recognized By State Highway Commissioner

THROUGH RICH TERRITORY

Counties Traversed By B-P Highway Contain Vast Oil, Gas, Coal, Manufacturing and Agricultural Interests—A Wonderful Scenic Route Over the Mountains.

The Buffalo-Pittsburgh Highway Association which is conducting an active campaign to secure the construction of 53 miles of primary road between Bradford and Indiana reports that for the completion of the B-P highway "strong grounds on which to base its arguments to State Highway Commissioner Paul D. Wright, and the association of which B. E. Taylor of Brockwayville, is president, is confident that its claims will be recognized by the commissioner with the result that of the $14,000,000 the state is expected to expend on road construction during the next two years, $5,000,000.00 will be appropriated for the completion of this magnificent north and south highway through the most picturesque section of Pennsylvania and through a vastly rich oil, gas, coal, manufacturing and agricultural territory.

Links With Pittsburgh.

The B-P Highway, which is linked with Pittsburgh by the William Penn Highway at Murrysville and the Lincoln Highway at Greensburg, traverses important counties in Pennsylvania, McKean, Elk, Jefferson, Clearfield, Indiana, Westmoreland and Fayette. It intersects the four great highways of the state, the William Penn Highway, Lincoln Highway, Roosevelt Highway and the National Highway and also crosses the proposed Northern Tier highway from Erie to Port Jervis, the total distance from Buffalo to Clarksburg, W. Va., is 363 miles. With the exception of the 53 miles between Bradford and Indiana the highway is either improved or now under contract for improvement.

From Bradford to Bolivar, north and south through the state, the highway passes through Mt. Jewett, Kane, Wilcox, Johnsonburg, Ridgway, Brockwayville, Falls Creek, DuBois, Sykesville, Punxsutawney, Glen Hope, Marion Center, Indiana, Homer City, Black Lick, Blairsville, Derry, Latrobe, Greensburg, Mt. Pleasant, Scottdale and Connellsville.

A Busy Organization.

The Buffalo-Pittsburgh Highway Association is one of the most active road organizations in the State of ... and is doing good work

B. E. TAYLOR
Of Brockwayville, Pa., President of the Buffalo-Pittsburgh Highway Association.

... ers of the association—and they are numerous and men of high standing in the various communities are determined to leave no stone unturned in their efforts to gain their end. Delegations from all along the route are visiting Harrisburg week after week and voicing their claims to the highway commissioner, and in many other ways the powers that be at the state capital are being made to realize that the Buffalo-Pittsburgh Highway Association is an organization of importance and that the road construction it is after is a real necessity and will complete one of the finest highways in the state.

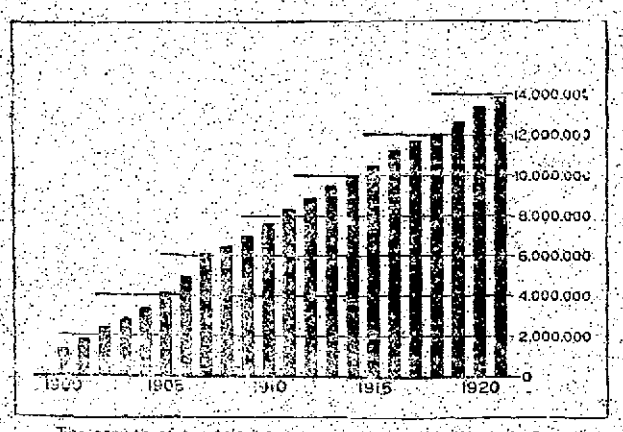
The Officers.

The officers of the association are: B. E. Taylor, Brockwayville, president; M. E. McCreight, Du Bois, secretary; W. G. Brown, Du Bois, treasurer; vice presidents: Colonel J. R. Bates, Bradford; W. H. Watkins, Kane; H. S. Thayer, Ridgway; W. A. Keys, Brockwayville; J. H. Osborn, Du Bois; C. C. Grill, Sykesville; E. R. Sheldon, Punxsutawney; H. J. Thompson, Marion Center; Hon. John S. Fisher, Indiana; T. C. North, Blairsville; Hon. G. A. Smith, Derry; Hon. Thomas R. Whiteman, Latrobe; Harry Bovard, Greensburg; Berkey H. Boyd, Scottdale and John B. Goldsmith, Mt. Pleasant.

The Sportsman's Paradise.

The B-P Highway passes through the famous "Buckrail Crossing" in the heart of Pennsylvania's greatest hunting and fishing region. Here elk, deer, bear and also almost every kind of smaller game are always plentiful, while the trout streams are unrivalled in the state. This region is the mecca of thousands of hunters and fishermen every year. Hundreds of hunters' lodges are scattered throughout this territory, many of them being elaborately constructed and equipped.

STEADY GROWTH IN NUMBER OF TELEPHONES IN UNITED STATES



The growth of the telephone business in the United States is shown in the above diagram by bars representing the total number of telephones for each year from 1900 to date.

It is a common belief that the United States has the world in point of the extent of telephone service, but the great degree of American superiority is not so generally appreciated.

According to a recent survey, on January 1, 1921, there were 29,850,000 telephones in the world, and of these 13,329,379, or 44 per cent, were in the United States. In other words, with only a fifth and a fourth of the world's population, the United States has almost two-thirds of the world's telephones. The number of telephones in all the countries of Europe combined was 5,258,000, or only 17 per cent of the world's total. In the relation between telephones and population, Europe is today exactly where the United States was some 23 years ago. For the total number of telephones in the world on January 1, 1921, about 14,350,000 were operated by private companies and about 5,900,000 by various governments.

In the United States, where telephones are under private ownership, there were 12.4 telephones for each 100 people in the country, a development higher than that of any other country. In Europe, the best developed country was Denmark, with 7.7 telephones for every 100 people, followed by Sweden, with 6.6, and Norway, with 5.0. In all these countries telephone service was developed by private enterprise, although the government has bought out the private companies in Sweden and part of Norway.

Germany, although it ranked next to the United States as to number of telephones, with 1,809,574 instruments, had less development per 100 inhabitants of only 3.0. Austria had 2.2, Great Britain 2.1, France 1.2, Belgium 0.3, and Japan 0.6. In all these countries, telephones are owned and operated by the government.

The sort of telephone service that is such a well-known feature of life in the smaller communities and rural districts in the United States and Canada is almost unknown abroad.

$135.05 to the five high schools represented in the meet.
$61.95 for 30 medals to winners of firs tand second places.
$5.00 to the Official Starter.

The Association stands ready to make the same donation next year. Medals will be given the winners first and second in all the events listed.

Two Claims to Distinction.

Florence, Colo., the center of oil and the center of ostrich orchards in Colorado and the West. The oil field was located in 1859 and the first well was drilled in 1861. Some Pilgrims in 1849 hauled ostrich eggs across the plains and planted them near Florence, and there are still standing. From their first crop developed the famous Colorado ostrich ranches, and this was the parent of the extensive Florence and Cañon City ostrich orchards. Florence has 50 producing oil wells and is the only developed oil field in Colorado.

FACTS ABOUT THE TELEPHONE

At the beginning of the last decade the limits of telephone transmission were about 1200 to 1500 miles in open wire. Today a number of cities of the United States duly be placed in communication with each other over distances of 3000 miles and upward.

Walls that are really kept clean

Dirt, dust and grime can be washed from walls that are painted with Devoe's Velumina. We recommend this as a wall paint. It has no pores. Even grease cannot penetrate its hardy film. All blemishes are merely surface marks and are easily washed away.

Architects and decorators recognize the utility, economy and decorative possibilities of Velumina. You will find Velumina on walls in some of the finest homes. We have it in twenty-sixteen attractive colors—none of the harsh, blatant, glaring effects—but velvety, glassless tones that bespeak refinement and good taste.

Consider Velumina when you redecorate. We have also paints, varnishes and enamels for any purpose. We will be glad to talk with you about the paint you need for any job.
